

FUN: Youngsters at Yarrells don their 'maths hats'

Put thinking caps on...

PUPILS at a Poole prep school put their thinking caps on to take part in World Maths Day.

Youngsters at Yarrells wore special maths hats and the school went off timetable for the day to offer exciting maths-related projects to pupils.

Topics included orienteering, 3D modelling, Chinese maths, maths through music, drama and dance, cooking and problem solving.

The annual event encourages thousands of students from around the world to take a break from standard maths lessons. Instead, they take part in competitive maths-themed games, with the chance to win certificates and prizes. The aim is to help raise standards of numeracy.

Since it was founded in 2007 by the organisation 3P Learning, World Maths Day has seen its popularity multiply fast. It's now part of the World Education Games, linking schools from many parts of the globe, and in 2010 the event established a world record for the largest-ever online maths contest. Children as young as five can get involved, competing against others from abroad in real time. It is also possible to play via mobile phones.

Trekking for charity

A TEAM of personal injury experts are nursing their own aches and pains after trekking 66 miles between company offices for charity.

Solicitors from Trethowans raised nearly £2,000 for the Roy Castle Foundation, the Child Brain Injury Trust, the Spinal Injuries Association and children's hospice Naomi House.

James Braund, senior associate, said: "It was tougher than we expected at times and there were a few moments when we got a bit lost. We're also nursing some pretty spectacular blisters."

*Really pleased with the work carried out. The fitters were brilliant, taking so much care not to damage plaster work when replacing the bay windows. They were always on time and the quality of finish is excellent. Poole Joinery Windows were not the cheapest out of quotes I obtained from Checkatrade members to do the work, but the windows and door I had installed are far better than work I have had done by other double glazing companies in the past."
